Although a seemingly arrogant undertaking, Claudio Corrivetti, fearlessly and with great modesty, takes us on a journey into the ordinary and extraordinary world of colour. This collection of photographs demonstrates how colour is more than simply a superficial layer, but an expression of the very essence of the things we see. The images on these pages go far beyond the objective notion of colour as a reflection of light on objects. This book has the joy and effrontery to bring into focus fragments of hidden poetry.
